

Meghan Meyer

Meghan is a Marketing Associate at the University of Florida Office of Technology Licensing, where she markets university researchers' discoveries to a business audience with assistance from a talented team of interns. In this role she also promotes the “innovation ecosystem” — including the Florida Innovation Hub at UF and UF Tech Connect® — through traditional and digital/social media.

Meghan has an MBA from UF, and a BS in Journalism and International Studies from Northwestern University. Before moving into the technology entrepreneurship sphere, Meghan spent a decade as an award-winning reporter and editor at the Palm Beach Post and other newspapers.